A Diary

Do you think it would be fun to remember just what you did on a certain day two years ago? One way to remember each day is to write about it in a diary. Many people write in their diaries each day. They write about what they did, what they ate, who they saw and what they felt during that day. Most people feel very private about what they write. They do not want anyone else to read their diaries.

Long ago, many people wrote in diaries, too. Some of these old diaries have been found. They are famous because we can learn about life long ago.

Underline.

Writing in a diary is a way to remember each day.
 is like reading a magazine.

Check.

What do many people write about in their diaries each day?

- What they did that day
- Who they saw that day
- Ten math problems
- How they felt about things that happened that day

Circle.

What does private mean in the story?

People do not want anyone to read their diaries.

People feel tired after writing in their diaries.

Write about your day in the picture diary.

- Make your own diary. Try writing every day for a week!

Fables

A fable is a story that teaches a lesson. Most fables are short stories about animals. The animals think and talk like people. The lesson from the story is called the moral.

The most famous fables were written by Aesop hundreds of years ago. One of his fables told of a fox who tried to reach for grapes hanging on a vine above his head. He tried and tried, but he could not reach them. As he angrily went away, he said that the grapes were probably sour anyway. The moral was . . . a person sometimes pretends that he does not want something he cannot have!
